"It is practically a law in life that when one door closes to us another opens. The trouble is that we often look with so much regret and longing upon the closed door that we do not see the one which has opened."

High school is just such an opportunity, a series of doors to be opened widely and walked through with only a few steps. Much too rapidly, it seems, we are approaching the end of these doors and the passage of our education will soon close behind us. Still we will not regret this if we have walked through all the doors necessary for the journey ahead.

So if we have passed through all of these, then we should never waste time watching them close, for they were opened to let us proceed to the next one before us.

Just let us pass swiftly onward.

And these doors, of what are they made?
Not of wood, nor steel. No.

But of various materials; with differences which regulate the ease with which they are opened.

The academic doors are laminations of equations, essay questions, logarithms, periodic charts and the Spanish Armada.

The door to sports is heavy with massive sheets of daily practice and perserverance, bolted together by teamwork. And sweat. And a little pain.

The elective doors are highly individual; some made of pen and ink, non-translatable sentences, punch cards, typewriters and Beethoven's Unfinished Fifth.

Always there are more doors in this maze; to dances, concerts and football games, initiations, plays and Roman banquets. And curb service. And beach trips.

Truly these doors are diversified but to walk through any of them takes effort, whether it be in the form of study, or physical discipline; mental awareness or muscular co-ordinations. Or both.

And none of these doors is locked.

Yes, the doors are numerous and the exit of the maze different for each individual that enters in, so to speed us on our separate ways we are blessed with leaders, people who thought enough of tomorrow to dedicate their lives to us today. PEOPLE who have a role much greater than that of doorman, who open wide the opportunities of learning, so that through these we might pass.

Yet the doors weren't always open. So these leaders spent many years earning the keys needed to unlock those they had selected, and once those keys were won, the locks were loosed and with daily determination the doors were forced open. For us.

So, with a labyrinth of open, waiting doors, guidance comes as an invaluable commodity, and our leaders seem to have cornered the market. And for these extra efforts, tempered with masterful patience, they receive little praise. It is expected of them.

Still, if we had to find and open all the right doors along the way, alone, we would know.

Let us proceed.

Although our leaders do unlock and hold open many doors, there are still others that remain locked, the keys to which have been earlier entrusted into the hands of the students themselves, and it is up to them to unlock and pass through such doors as:

- club membership,
- sports participation,
- social activity,
- beauty contesting,
- and leadership training.

The way is not easy, for the individual must discover which key he might hold and what door to unlock. Those that do so are the ones whose walks are most fruitful.

"Our greatest glory is not in never falling, but in rising every time we fall."

—Confucius

Often times the doors lie squarely before us, but still we stumble and fall, for, in our passing through the maze of learning, the light is sometimes very dim, the going exceedingly rough. Still, with the earnest desire to exit these halls, and with the help of our leaders, and more importantly our friends, we pull ourselves up and walk on through these doors into life, with the warm glow of knowing — knowing we've made it all this far.

Through these doors walk . . .

MR. ROBERT L. MADDOX, III

Dedication

Because of his sincere dedication to music, not only as a teacher at Garinger but in association with the Charlotte Symphony Orchestra and the Charlotte Youth Symphony, because of his interest in providing musical entertainment on stage and on the field at football game halftimes, and because of his understanding of young musicians . . .

We the staff of Snips and Cuts dedicate this the nineteen hundred and sixty-eight edition of Snips and Cuts to Mr. Robert L. Maddox.

Mrs. Maddox and little Miss Maddox

. . . our leaders

Our leaders weren't always such, but followers, instead, led along the paths on which we now walk, and finding their ways through the maze of education. They know what a journey it is and how difficult the exit is to find. They know the way is dark, and rough, and some doors hard to reach. They know, not all, of course, no one does. Still they care enough to share with the so-journers of today the wisdom they once gleaned in their passage.

They show us the way to doors they know how to unlock and hold open, and point out ways to find and open others. They do all of this for the satisfaction of accomplishing what they set out to do; to provide a clearer way along which we might walk, to hold open doors which were once held open for them, and to open new ones that we might find more in the way of experience, too.

All of our leaders work for tomorrow through us. And we often show, in return, distaste for their earnest, disobedience for their efforts. Instead we should thank them for showing us the way, thank them for giving their lives for the purpose of holding open the opportunities of learning.

And we shall someday. Thank them.

... 1600 reference books, 192 volumes of hardbound periodicals, five years worth of other copies filed in reserve, 110 subscriptions in all, 400 foreign language parallels and 750 historical novels; a total selection of well over 20,500 publications including the amassed fictional, nonfictional and biographical works . . .

Truly an impressive array of literature, especially at the high school level, and to supplement this inventory of the written word is a slightly weathered assortment of audio-visual aids. Still, in dealing with such an assemblage, there must be an order not found in Mr. Dewey or his decimal system. The instigators of such order; Mrs. Morrison, Mrs. Parrish and Mrs. Garner, all work to provide an establishment devoted to study and reading, a quiet concern for the researchers and the interested. Efficient and determined, they strive to aid the student as he grasps what he will of education . . . and keeps the peace.

It is ever the need of the educated to be guided, therefore, in an effort to meet this demand, the advisors stand ready to extend the knowledge they have gained concerning the vast field of further education. The offer is noble but the extent of its effect is left up to the student. He will accept what he will. Still the thankless task is rewarding for those who give.

“An education does not consist of how many books you read, only how deeply you go into them — like a stream; if you widen it without deepening it, it stays shallow.”

Although college book lists often appear to express the concept of a wide stream, it is the devoted purpose of the English courses at Garinger to deepen, as well as widen it, at its beginning, middle and end.

At its source, the stream offers Greek tragedy and Homeric adventure, both seasoned with applied mythology. As the waters sweep onward, the current increases into contemporary novels by Golding, Hemingway and Steinbeck. Toward the middle, the waters arc wide into the cycle of American literature, flowing over works by Hawthorne, Poe and Melville. Continually deepening with intensive reading, discussion and expository departures, this education runs on into research and experience in style analysis.

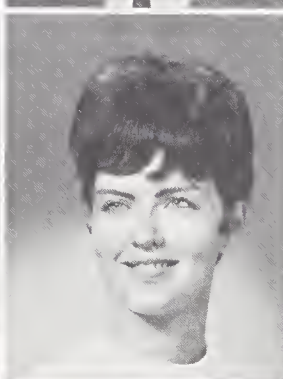

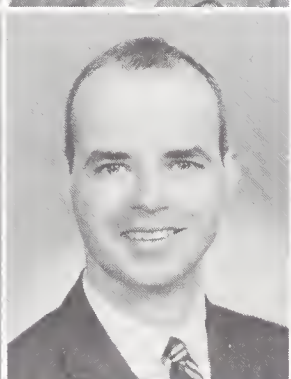

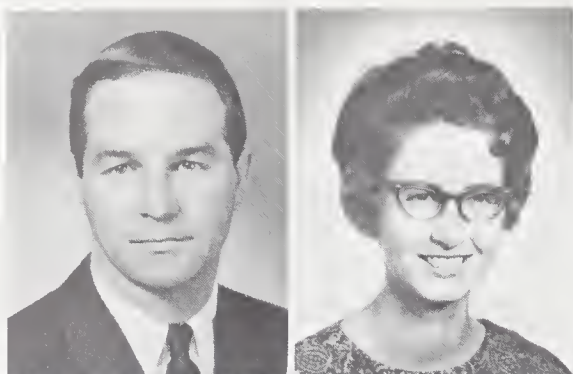

It is towards the end that the stream runs rapidly and the snags are most frequent and sharp. The studies are of man's nature as expressed in his writings on tragedy, comedy, satire and the Utopian desire. Shakespearean undercurrents line the waters which encompass Huxley and Swift, Shaw and Chaucer, as well as a remnant of Sophocles. The concern is for a deeper understanding of man, his actions and his reactions, as portrayed in skillfully constructed works by authors who have reigned supreme for just such expoundings as MacBeth, Brave New World, and Canterbury Tales.

In the end, this education flows out to widen and deepen the river of life.

from history . . .”

“We learn from history that we learn nothing from history.”

—George Wilhelm Fredrick Hegel

In this concise statement we are able to see the irony of historic events, as it reminds us how men repeatedly have deemed it necessary to war, and then inevitably re-learn the price of defeat, or victory; how they rediscover the frequent burden of loyalty and the seeming futility of rebellion. Still all of this redundancy is not foolishness, but, instead, an insight into the nature of the individual, that he must experience his own hardships, make his own mistakes. Otherwise his existence would become a mere lesson concerning the past affairs of both living and dying. History courses, while covering various materials, all seem to be exposing this factor of man's nature and are lessons, not of wisdom passed on, but of precise examples involving this characteristic. It is this open awareness which is the true wisdom to be gained. Naturally, the more interested students will best see this, but everyone has it laid before him, either to pick up, or walk over. From lessons in obedience and its benefits taught from the Bible, through courses on the development of today's world, taught in Current Events, World History and American environment, taught in Economics and Sociology, the student is offered a precious insight he need never and could never obtain through experience. Historian Charles A. Beard used this insight to observe the following on the subject of history:

- “1.) When it gets darkest, the stars come out.
- 2.) When a bee steals from a flower it also fertilizes it.
- 3.) Whom the gods would destroy, they first make mad with power.
- 4.) Though the mills of God grind slowly, yet they grind exceedingly small.”

While all mathematics courses provide a progressive insight into the realm of logic and reason, there are two distinct ends for the student's efforts. The first is the exposure of mathematics in everyday life, found in the practicality of such courses as General Mathematics I, II, and III. The second aim, perhaps more indirect to its end, is college preparation. From the angles of Euclidean geometry, to the theorems of advanced studies, these courses prepare the pupil for greater involvement in the field of mathematics.

Still, general mathematics offers just as much logic, of another kind.

Two heads are better than one in figuring out physics problems

“In all sciences that are concerned with principles or causes or elements, it is acquaintance with these that constitutes knowledge or understanding. For we conceive ourselves to know about a thing when we are acquainted with its ultimate causes and first principles and have got down to its elements.”

—Aristotle

Each individual lives, but often has no passable understanding of why life, or how. It is then that the need for biological study is most evident, as well as more advanced work. The first biology course is prepared to meet this need, but it is only a beginning in an endless quest for understanding. It is here the inquisitive are afforded the opportunity to better their comprehension of Nature's actions and principles. While Biology II tells more of the intricacies of life, chemistry, physics and other courses focus not on life but life's environment.

Art: A Pure Means of Expression

Miss Wilma King

Mrs. Rita Scott

Garinger's department of art is not meant to provide professional training or professional work. Instead it is established for the needs of the teenager, opening up for him a wide, versatile field of expression. The means to unfold his ideas lie here, limited only by the individual. The progressive art pupil finds his tools to be his slaves, not his master. The paints, the chalks, crayons, and the inks; all provide the earnest student with a wide potential of possibilities. His direction is plotted by his imagination; his grade found in his progress, not in his art ability.

A world of expression opportunities — still, only a minority seem to be in earnest.

Mike Fowler listens to advice.

Music: An Expression in Sound

Band waits for Half-Time

— Ludwig van Beethoven

Music is best known as the universal language, a melodious means of expression, through either voice or the instrument. The choral, orchestral and band courses, all, are adventures in sound, as well as exercises in the usage of this language. The beauty of the learning lies in the attempt to reach a primal perfection.

The true purposes for teaching the Romance languages are possibly more involved than the language syntax itself. The most evident reasons would be a greater cultural background, and a new insight into the English language. Still, a foreign language sharpens awareness and finally provides the student with expansion of expression.

Home Economics: A Practical Course

Mrs. Virginia Boyd

The task of the family woman is a never ending chore, a wearing cycle of meal preparation, cleaning up after everyone else, mending, and tending to the sick of the household. It's not easy, no routine, especially of such massive proportion, ever is. Still all of this and more is expected of her daily. Therefore, to supplement her practical knowledge beforehand, a series of courses in home sciences is offered to those truly concerned about their homemaking future.

The preparation of meals for a family is a matter of importance to the housewife. She knows they must be satisfying and nutritious. It is the intention of the courses involving foods to render instruction in both meal planning and preparation, as well as serving, for the demands of etiquette always seem to fall on the lady of the house.

In all, these courses are for those with a future of family devotion.

Practice adds to experience

Toye Gullledge strives for accuracy

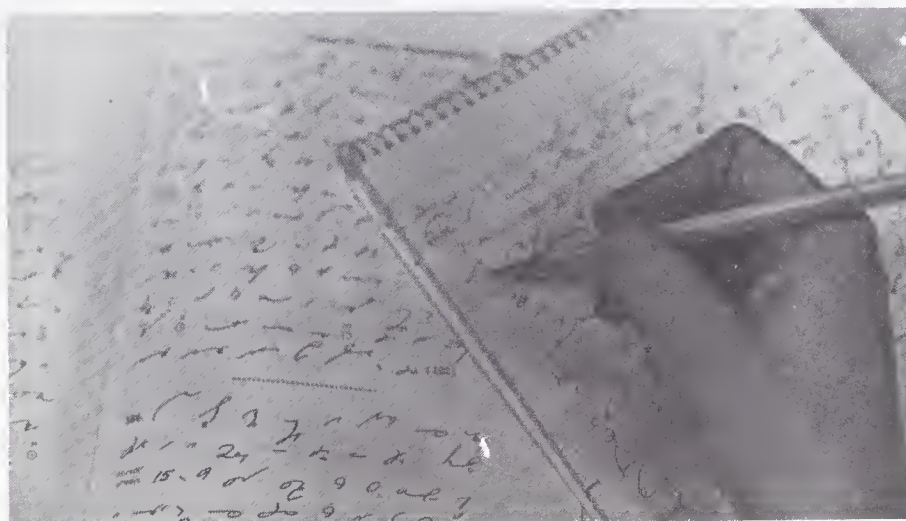

Today, more than ever, the businesses across the country are dependent on the efficiency of office personnel, for it is in the office that the infamous mountains of paper work are sorted out and dealt with. Often, too, it is the basis for the success or failure of the complete operation.

The student interested in some facet of business is provided with a multitude of courses ranging from the area of secretarial work and bookkeeping, to the advancing realm of data processing. Although high school courses must tend to be elementary in premises, these studies do offer the student a challenge; to practice for perfection, as in typing and transcription; to strive for proficiency in filing, the use of machinery and general office routine; and to better understand mathematics and law as related to the business world.

Still such courses are not meant and are not able to replace actual experience. To compensate, a work-study course, offered to the more advanced, furnishes the on-the-job training so vital to later employment.

Speed, accuracy and efficiency, fixed together by experience, give the young job-seeker a head start on employment.

"That all our knowledge begins with experience, there is indeed no doubt . . . but although our knowledge originates with experience, it does not all arise out of experience."

—Immanuel Kant

There is one definite purpose in offering the vocational courses, one key word in distributive education, and that is experience. Experience is something no one can be taught, something one reaches by paying out one's time and effort. The department's very name, vocational, tells of work training both by instruction and by application of the student's knowledge in a field he has chosen for future occupation. These courses provide what is possibly the most concrete education extended on the high school level, as well as the most applicable to future use. The skills of tomorrow's workmen are shaped here by daily undertakings in the various facets of the offered courses. Future craftsmen begin today in an effort to master the talents demanded in their selected areas.

Printing students for example, develop toward meeting the demands of the printing industry. Through attentive practice they acquire some degree of competence in offset printing, photography, developing negatives and plates, operation of reproduction, equipment and others including layout design.

Drafting is another wide field, offering design, transformation of these into metallic form, and work in drawing building plans.

Our youthful bodies are blessings we often neglect to recognize as such. Truly it is through the continuation of a healthy condition, through physical exercise and rigorous activity that we can keep this blessing worth having and worthy of our Occupant. The federal government has established a means of keeping America's youth fit, by making mandatory one year of physical education, which is designed to develop strength and muscular co-ordination, as well as good sportsmanship.

Still most important is the desire to make one's self fit, and the incentive is provided — competition, both indoors and out, in activities such as basketball and softball, volleyball and track.

Cafeteria and Custodial Staff

Miracle workers are a people of the past. Still, it is phenomenal that the staff of our swinging cafeteria is consistently able to prepare meals which taste as good as cafeteria food is meant to taste. The staff, on the whole, appears to function rather efficiently especially considering the number of students and staff members who must be fed each day. The services rendered are what are expected of such an establishment.

Scheduled sanitation and repair are definite needs when over 2300 persons actively occupy a building for some forty hours weekly. The custodial staff is assigned to this clean-up and repair, and its tasks are never-ending as long as buildings of education still stand.

FIRST ROW: Henry Hudson, Luther Johnson, Lewis James, Annie Alexander. SECOND ROW: Eddie Martin, Jip Davis, Willie Duncan, Fred Moser.

SEATED: Doreen Devore, Lorene Medford, Viola Hopkins, Dortha Lorenz, Remalle Edwards, Eloise Heintz, Grace Douglas, Ruby Wendell, Ruby Wrede. STANDING: Jessie Bacote, Evelina Jackson, Gracie Linder, Susie Wade, Bettie Midgette, Eunice Jones, Gladys Alston, Francis Harley, Billie McClain.

Over one hundred strong, the teachers of this educational institution render an invaluable service, the instruction of today's youth in numerous fields of learning. These people extend a means of preparation both for a more extensive education, and for life itself. Through their help, the student is equipped with the knowledge needed for a social existence. The pupil is their inspiration; his advancement, their reward. The youth seldom recognizes them as such, but they are the only hope for an organized, learned future. These educators have paid with their yesterdays so that today they might strive for a better tomorrow.

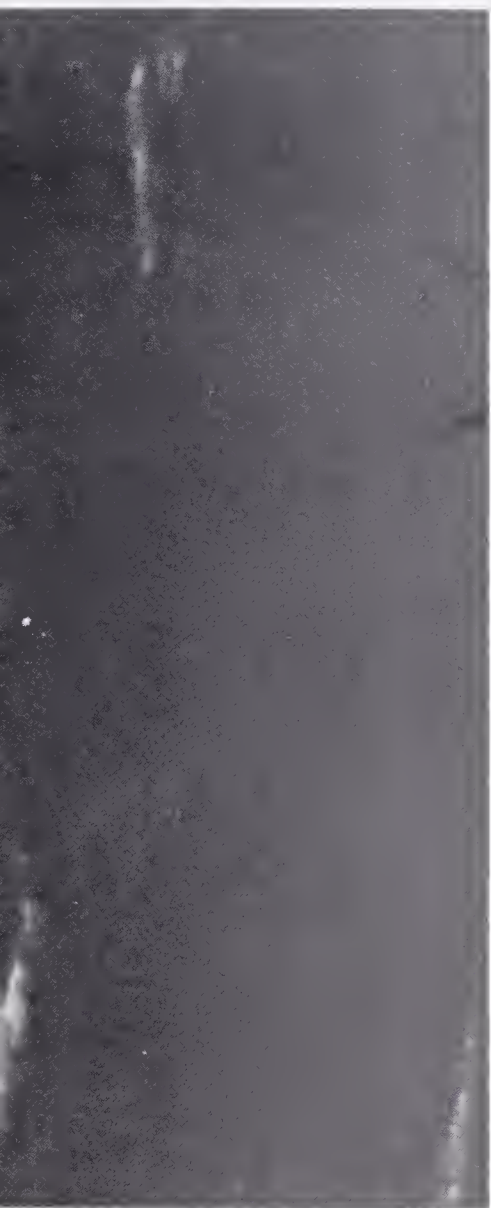

. . . the outstanding.

In this maze, this conglomeration of teenage opportunities, there are certain closed doors through which only a very precious few pass. These people are not representative of the student body, but, instead, are examples of excellence in their select aptitudes. They are the best of Garinger.

Often more individuals approach these doors than have the right keys for the locked bolts. Then, of those who do hold fitting keys, some fail to reach out and insert them. Only those who apply their talents are able to effect their own advance over the acclaimed thresholds.

It is with those who not only have the right keys, but use them to their fullest advantage, with those who stand for excellence at Garinger, that this section is concerned.

Dear Debbie:

I appreciate very much your kind invitation to act as judge in the selection of the beauties for this year's Snips 'N Cuts. Though it is always a pleasant and enjoyable task to select beauty queens, it is not to be sure, an easy one. This was particularly true this year for Garinger as the competition was most keen.

After due deliberation on the matter, I have selected the following as this year's Snips 'N Cuts Beauty Queens:

Seniors

1. Cathy Covington
2. Jo Ann Stitt
3. Diane Haislip

Juniors

1. Cindy Kester
2. Sidney Vandell

Sophomores

1. Candy White
2. Donna Hayden

I thank you and your staff for extending this honor to me. Please convey my kindest personal regards to all my friends at Garinger.

Carrousel Princess

The seniors annually honor one of the loveliest members of their class by choosing her to represent them and the school in the Carrousel Parade.

This year Eve Fragakis was chosen by the graduating class of 1968 to represent Garinger as Carrousel Princess. The colorful Carrousel Parade officially ushers in the Christmas season for Charlotte. Eve was one of many girls chosen from high schools in both North and South Carolina, to take part in the parade. She also attended the Carrousel Ball which preceded the parade, and was present at the crowning of Carrousel queen and king. Eve was chosen on the basis of poise, grace, regal bearing and beauty.

The princesses from Garinger, Harding, and Myers Park serve as honorary princesses and are not eligible for the title Carrousel Queen.

Homecoming Queen

Eve Fragakis was also named Garinger's Homecoming Queen for 1967-68. She was chosen by the senior members of the football team and reigned at the ninth annual Homecoming game at Memorial Stadium and also at the Homecoming dance.

The identity of the queen was not known even by the nominees or to the football players until they were presented at the coronation ceremony, the chief event of the half-time program. Eve received the crown from the reigning Homecoming Queen, Nancy Easterling. The crown was placed upon her head by the former Superintendent of Schools Dr. Elmer H. Garinger, for whom our school was named.

The membership of the National Honor Society is composed of juniors and seniors who are superior in scholarship and have shown the outstanding qualities of leadership, character, and service. To be eligible for membership, the student must maintain a B plus scholastic average for three consecutive semesters.

Inductions are held twice a year, in September and February. The Garinger chapter of the National Honor Society is made up of thirty students all demonstrating the outstanding qualities of an Honor Society member.

Harvard Book Award

The Harvard Book is a collection of articles written by Harvard's graduates, the purpose of which is to inspire the student who receives it to continue his achievements throughout college.

Annually the Harvard Book Award is presented to a rising senior in the college preparatory program.

The senior selected for this year was Richard Jones. Richard, was chosen by the principal and members of the faculty for his superior scholarship and his outstanding character.

Voice of Democracy

"We humans organize ourselves into units called families. Families in turn form communities and societies . . . Man arranges himself this way for the protection and betterment of his individuality. He also establishes governments which assure him of society's freedoms. Many types of governments have attempted to protect man's liberties. Only one type will ever be successful. A type in which all men are in equilibrium . . . Basically Americans are a free people. We have guaranteed freedoms of speech and press. By our Constitution each of us is equal under the law . . . Don't be content with this equality! There is a challenge buried in this freedom . . . Challenge yourself to be an individual. Man is small in stature compared with the universe in which he lives, yet he has a mind with which he can project his personality through limitless space, if he has the incentive. This is freedom's challenge."

—Douglas Tripp

This quote is the core of a paper which won both first place at Garinger and third place on the county level for its writer in the Voice of Democracy speech contest this year.

Morehead Semi-finalist

Academic excellence, outstanding citizenship and participation in extracurricular activities are the chief factors considered by the Mecklenburg County Committee members who decide on the Morehead semi-finalist.

Chosen from a group of forty outstanding students of the Charlotte-Mecklenburg area high schools are twelve semi-finalists in competition for the Morehead Scholarship Award presented by the University of North Carolina.

Out of the forty annually chosen, two seniors represented Garinger High School as semi-finalists. These were Rick Harris and Gary Eller. Of these two students, Gary was selected to enter finalist competition.

Governor's School

SEATED: Betsy Norris, Becky Stroupe. STANDING: Donna Newman, Chris Dooley, Eve Fragakis, Jean Lasater.

The purpose of Governor's School is to provide a unique expansion of the students' educational experiences by means of intensive training in a select field.

This year Garinger sent four seniors, Jean Lasater, Chris Dooley, Eve Fragakis and Becky Stroupe, and two juniors, Donna Newman and Betsy Norris to Governor's School. These students were chosen by Miss Inez Bankett and Mr. Ed Sanders. They were among approximately four hundred gifted students who attended the 1967 summer session in Winston-Salem from June 20 until August 5.

Wild Acres

Wild Acres is a youth leadership and human relations conference, a week-long experience in living and associating with others. This past June at Little Switzerland, North Carolina, Annette Dixon, Ann Yaeger and Rick Harris were challenged by thought provoking topics in discussions such as new morality, religion, civil rights, interracial dating and marriage. Consisting of rising seniors from all over North Carolina, as well as parts of Virginia and Georgia, the conference both strove for bettering human relations and emphasized citizenship.

Interact Sweetheart

"Beauty is God's handwriting."

—Charles Kingsley

This year hopefully marked the beginning of a tradition, the selection of an Interact Club beauty, a senior girl to hold honorary membership in that organization. Nominations were made both by a committee consisting of club members and by individual members by secret ballot, for one girl to be their Interact Sweetheart. This year's honorary member, chosen for outstanding beauty, is Miss Sissy Haislip.

Our Foreign Exchange Students

Dear Friends,

I have taken this opportunity to write you a letter hoping that it might express a little of all the feelings and thoughts that I have had through this year.

I came to Charlotte as a newcomer, but it did not last long before I felt that I had established a steady place with a nice family and good friends. So far we have been around a lot of places and taken part in the lives of the people around us, happenings which to me always are going to be unforgettable because of you. I have had plenty of good experience and perhaps a few bad ones but they are all going to be valuable for me in the future.

Also I would like to thank my organization CESP for giving me this great opportunity, my American family who was so generous to open their home for me, my school advisor Mrs. Huntley who has been irreplaceable in guiding me and last but not least you who were so warm, helpful, and friendly towards me. I will always remember you . . .

Love,
Birgitte

Gary Eller

Among the southern strand of cities, islands, and fjords surrounding Oslo, Norway is the home of the Sandburg family of Kolsas. For nine weeks it was Gary's pleasure to live with this family as they worked. He toured the rocky countryside and vacationed on the isle of Hvasser in the Oslofjord. Gary and his Norwegian family learned each other's habits, natures, and thoughts to a degree that unfortunately is rare. It was indeed, a most successful and enjoyable enterprise.

Al Norris

Last summer Al Norris spent nine weeks in Mendoza, Argentina with the family of Senor and Senora Jorge Muniz and their sons. By speaking Spanish, eating four meals a day, playing rugby, and attending school, Al feels that he now has a second family, set of friends and country.

The highlight of his stay was a 700 mile trip across Argentina to her capital, Buenos Aires. The exciting experience which Al had in Argentina changed his outlook on the world and made him much more appreciative of the United States.

Chief Marshals

One of the greatest honors given to a member of the junior class is that of being a commencement marshal. These students are outstanding members of their class selected on the basis of scholarship, citizenship, service and personal appearance. The marshals are nominated by homeroom teachers and chosen through secret ballot by a faculty committee.

They serve at both the baccalaureate service and the graduation exercises. Their responsibilities include distributing programs, escorting parents, guests and seniors to their seats. They are also to see that the Commencement exercises are conducted with order and dignity.

The marshals choose from their own number, six chief marshals to escort the seniors to their seats, and later to the stage to receive their diplomas.

Gwendolyn Elaine Taylor and Jay Harold Helson were chosen by the Garinger senior class as its mascots for 1968. They were selected by the seniors from a group of over forty, four and five-year olds. Gwendolyn

. . . the interested

Outside of the academic opportunities themselves, the doors of club membership and group activities are the most numerous, and the most frequently opened. Through these, hundreds pass each year into a realm of friendships, experiences, and rewards. The purposes of these are to provide fellowship outside of school hours, work for those active ones who wish to be of service, and enjoyment for those who care enough to become involved. Some club doors can be opened by anyone who carries the key of interest, while others require more than this, such keys as scholarship, talent, or popularity. These are organizations for all. No one is left idle against his will, for through all of these doors stands the warehouse of activity.

Welcome to LIX Country!

Last year's annual was a tough one to follow for two reasons. First the deadlines were set at earlier dates than previously, and the staff strained overtime to meet them and to bring to the student body a year-book on time, no matter what the cost. The efforts seemed endless but not the time. Repeatedly things needed to be done yesterday, and were finally completed the day after. The deadlines were met though, miraculously to say the least.

The second reason was the quality of last year's annual, rated "first class." Quality was a continual key note throughout the year's work. Improvements were made. And mistakes. And a countless array of problems presented themselves. Still, the members of the staff overcame these and strove to offer something for the student to have and cherish, not only because of its memories, but its merits as well.

Perfection is not yet attained. Years of work still lie ahead.

THE RAMBLER

To say the least, this year's RAMBLER started out "running, scared" financially, as usual, and numerically, since the staff initially added up to a meager five, two of which were not connected with the journalistic end, and a trio of inexperienced juniors, one of which was the editor. Still, despite such problems, there soon arrived a brave squadron of volunteers willing to give of their time and talents for the publication of the school newspaper.

This year's paper was distinguished not by the finished touches of last year's, but by an evidently close association with the students, a directness which proved totally readable. The paper had too long been highly impersonal. Guided by a new journalistic advisor, the young and beautiful Miss JoAnn Kirsh, the staff continually expressed an understanding of the teen-age existence and how to relieve its pressures. The days were lost in the rush, but the result was a candid job of reporting, something refreshingly new for the Garinger scene.

Willow Tree Publishes Volume II

Garinger's literary magazine, Under the Willow Tree, is a collection of stories, poems, and thoughts both written and illustrated by students. This year the literary staff was swamped by over one hundred entries to be considered for publication. Each work was read and evaluated. From these, the best were sent to the art staff for possible illustration. The end result is a publication of which the students can be proud.

Finally, after years of having everyone at Garinger grope around in a vague darkness concerning the goings-on about them, and the very school itself, the 1966-67 Student Council approved the publication of a handbook, The Garinger Guide, designed to acquaint the students with the ideals, traditions, organizations, rules and activities of their school. The task of producing a book of accurate articles and illustrations was a mighty one, performed by a small, able force which devoted long summer hours to revive this old Central tradition. It served its purpose well.

The Student Council began its 1967 activities by adopting the theme "Keep Garinger Beautiful." This theme was in keeping with the theme of the National Association of Student Councils which is "Keep America Beautiful." All classrooms and offices were repainted and a new building was added. Students showed their pride in Garinger by helping to keep our freshly painted buildings and other areas clean.

New fields were open within the Council this year also. An Orientation Committee for Sophomores as well as new students was established. Dances were bigger and better than ever, with music provided by more well-known bands.

One of the most important and impressive steps adopted by the Council, and supported by the students, was the adoption of the Third Reconnaissance Battalion in Vietnam. A scroll was constructed and each student was asked to sign. At this time the Garinger student body displayed its spirit and pride by helping to make Christmas a little merrier for the Marines overseas.

Grrr — owl! The Wildcat Club was certainly on the prowl around Garinger this year! It's activities were numerous, and its main goal was to boost school spirit. The club had practically dissolved over the past few years, but this year it made a tremendous comeback. For the first time, membership was open to all students with no voting and no initiations. Anyone who was willing to work hard and who wanted to show his pride in Garinger was welcome. A card section was organized and "beat ribbons" for the basketball games were sold. The student body seemed to like these ribbons and there never seemed to be enough of them. The members also helped spirit by yelling at the football and basketball games, and during School Spirit Week, they could be seen wearing tags that proclaimed "Stomp Myers Park"!

The Wildcat Club is hopefully back at G.H.S. to stay. Its success this year shows that our students do take pride in our school, and that it is the students who make the spirit.

"Service Above Self"

"Service above self" should be the motto of every Garinger student; it is the motto of the Rotary sponsored Interact Club. Serving not only Garinger, but the community as well, these boys boost school spirit by selling G.H.S. license plates; and they promote community projects such as Easter Seals.

One of the very different activities of the club this year was an ice cream contest with the Key Club at a function sponsored by Campus Life. No one knows exactly who won.

This year Interact began something new. A senior girl was chosen to be an honorary member of the club. Sissy Haislip was chosen as the 67-68 Interact

Key Club Provides Service to 'Cats

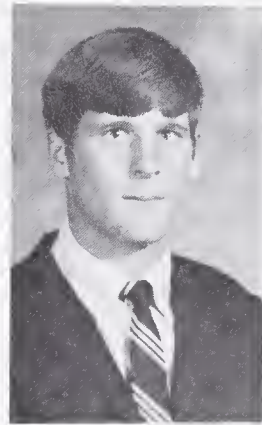

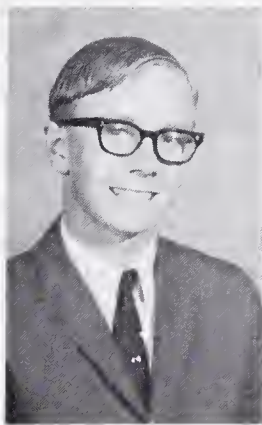

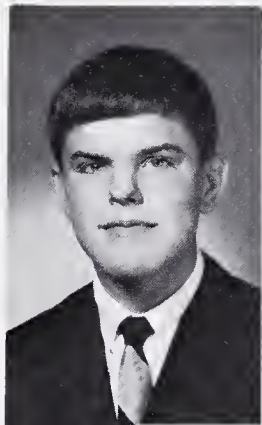

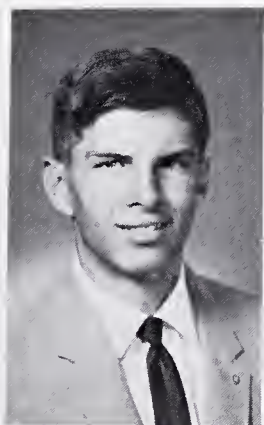

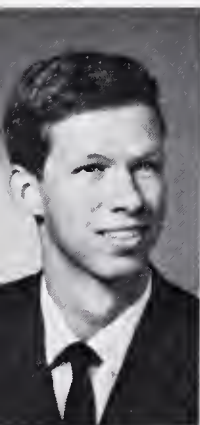

The Key Club at Garinger is only one of more than three thousand Key Clubs organized on an international level. The Key Club's objective is to provide service to the school and the community. Requirements for acceptance are leadership, character, and scholarship (at least 2.5 average is required).

With Mr. Richard Gregory, faculty advisor, giving invaluable aid and advice, the Key Club, under the sponsorship of the Charlotte-Eastern Kiwanis Club, undertakes several service projects each year. These include: one hundred dollars to the Foreign Exchange Student Lunch Program, furnishing the cheerleader's flowers for all the football games, and an old clothes drive at Christmas.

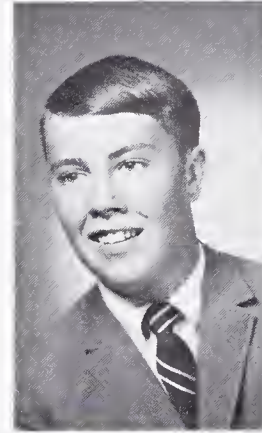

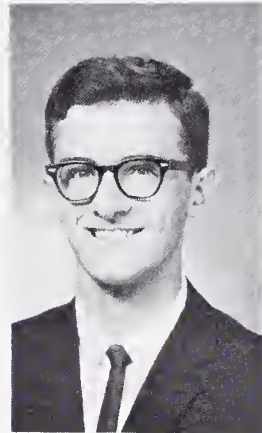

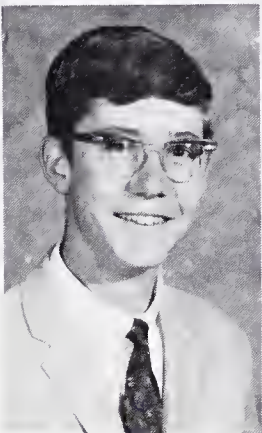

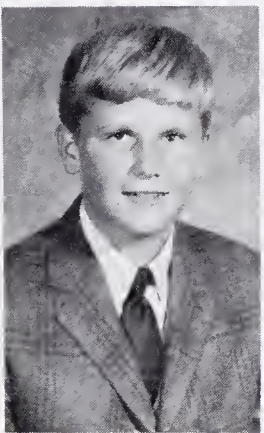

The "Key Klub Kapers" is held every year to provide entertainment for the students and to make money to award two-hundred dollar scholarships to two deserving seniors on Honors and Awards Day, as well as to raise money for other activities throughout the year. During the late summer and fall of each year, members of the club sell advertising space in the student-faculty directory in order to finance this publication, which is given to each student and faculty member just before Christmas vacation.

Girl's Good Sports, better known as G.G.S., is more than just initiations, sweat shirts, powderpuff football games, and twirlies. It is composed of friendly, school spirited girls, whose objective is to serve their school, the community and others. The club projects are numerous, ranging from the cafeteria Christmas tree to collecting for Easter Seals, but whatever the task, it is well done.

G.G.S. began the year by making and selling twirlies for football games and decorating the stadium. At the end of this season they played Centrusa. As the year progressed, club projects could be noted. A giant Christmas tree was placed in the cafeteria pit, and enjoyed by the student body. Much time was taken in cutting down the tree and in fire proofing it.

Initiations were changed this year with a two night initiation being reduced to one. On Wednesday night the new members were picked-up and taken to Miss Haney's for initiation.

G.G.S. is a lot of fun along with a lot of work. The girls must possess high qualities such as leadership, friendliness, scholarship, and a willingness to work and display school spirit.

CHARLOTTE

G.G.S. School Spirit Chain

Does your mother always let you go out like that?

A wide awakening, even between three and five in the morning, can be a joyful surprise for a junior or senior girl, when it is followed by breakfast at Mrs. Hawn's house, signifying initiation into the Centrusa Club. One of Garinger's most active clubs, Centrusa aims to combine service and leadership with a good proportion of fun.

Centrusa kicked off this year with its annual loss of the annual Powderpuff Football game. However, Mrs. Hawn, the club advisor, was unanimously elected the game's "Most Valuable Player!"

For Thanksgiving, Centrusa girls showered patients at Charlotte's Rehabilitation Hospital with cookies and candy, and they shared their Christmas spirit with an elderly less fortunate Charlottean!

Centrusa Welcomes

The season provided the atmosphere, and Mrs. Hawn's house the setting, for her Christmas Alumni Tea. Graduated club members were given the opportunity both to reunite with old friends, and to meet the recently inducted girls. The holidays were further celebrated by an informal dance, a joint project of several Garinger clubs.

The New Year focused on Centrusa's major concern, its annual fashion show. Although the girls decided to retain the theme, "Younger Than Springtime," the show itself was revolutionized. With a new sponsor in Franklin Simon, the Centrusa girls modeled, in addition to the traditional sports wear, stylish and completely accessorized ensembles, including formal attire. Garinger's auditorium provided a more professional setting for the show, which was commented by Pat Hice and M.C. by Rick Harris, while intermission entertainment was provided by the Sandrettes and the Treble Clef. Proceeds from the fashion show were presented to a deserving senior Centrusa girl in the form of a college scholarship.

In the spring, the junior members gave a farewell picnic for the seniors and elected officers for the following year. Then, the exciting and rewarding year was wound up with a week-end at the beach.

Adelphians Expand Qualifications

Sophomores may get excluded from some things, but certainly not service, for the Adelphians provide many activities for these girls. Meeting other G.H.S. students by selling football programs and serving at the Jr.-Sr. is only part of the fun. Working at Charlotte's Summer Theater and collecting for the Heart Fund also prove to be enjoyable as well as beneficial to the community and the girls themselves.

This year a new membership qualification was added — Faith. Faith joined the qualities of leadership, service, friendship, scholarship; and became the most important. For what worth is service if we have no faith in others or ourselves?

Garinger, being aware of the need for student dramatics, established a drama club three years ago. It was not until this year and an auditorium that the club made its presence known. The desire for expression prompted the struggling club as the students worked constructively to establish this new field at Garinger, which may expand as does the need.

Their first production, "Thieves' Carnival," was successfully executed for their initial public performance. And, with such a talented beginning, there is a good prospect for an ever growing theatrical world at Garinger.

French Club Publishes Paper

"Le Cercle Francais," open to all Garinger French students, is designed to stimulate interest in France, its people, and its culture. Mrs. Barnhardt, the club advisor, meets with interested students twice each month, either to plan projects, or to present special programs, such as a "tour" of Paris's Left Bank, suggested by French paintings, music, and a sidewalk cafe.

The major project of the French Club was the publication of a French newspaper, planned and edited by the newspaper committee with original and factual contributions from the French students themselves. This year's paper was highlighted by interviews with Miss Abel and Miss Reed, revealing the views and philosophies of Garinger's leading ladies.

Sponsored by the Charlotte YWCA, the Garinger Chapter of Y-Teens is a service club. These girls have done several things to aid the school and community during the past year. Some of these include: the making of tray favors for hospitals, working with national campaigns such as the Heart Fund, and dressing dolls for Salvation Army at Christmas. Our Y-Teens have made a tradition of receiving awards for the dolls they dress. The traditional fund-raising project is the sale of Wildcat pillows which encourage school spirit.

This past summer Garinger had one of the five Charlotte delegates to the Virginia-Carolina Y-Teen Conference held at Roanoke College in Salem, Virginia. Garinger was represented by Sue Alexander.

Soul Sound Basis for Wildcat Hour

Don Fuller

The top soul sounds plus selections by various student groups reports on school activities and points of interest, informative interviews, special features: this is the format for the "Garinger Wildcat Hour," a thirty minute radio broadcast offered weekly through the courtesy of WGIV, radio 1600. This is the basis for a show truly aimed at the student, programmed for the students by students. People in the know on the go. True. Still, with all of these features attuned to what would appear to be the needs and desires of the high-school teenager, the show is yet to attain its fullest merit as a successful production. The performers work hard to bring the school to the people who are its very substance. They strive to please, and often triumph. Yet, somehow, the show isn't heard as widely as it should be. Much like the majority of other worthwhile student activities, the show, too, must continue to struggle, for even though the endeavor made by the staff is an amateur one, it is just as well a good one, both sincere and dedicated, and it appears to be the listeners who aren't performing as they should. Yes, these are people in the know, on the go, ahead of their amateur audiences.

Debaters Attend Speech Festival

The Debate Club is organized for the purpose of debating as well as studying the techniques of this art. Much experience is gained by trips to High Point for speech competition and to Wake Forest for a Speech Festival. T.V. Debates are also given and some members are chosen for competition in the County-Wide Round Robin.

This year one of Garinger's debaters received a high honor. Due to his excellent performance in High Point, Phillip Kridel qualified for the National Forensic League with a Degree of Merit. Phillip and Jess Long also teamed this year to win a television debate sponsored by the Garinger Interact Club.

Chess Club Officers Training And Concentration

Chess is not a game that can be played in just a few minutes. It requires patience, time, skill, and concentration — one of which is not any good without the others. The purpose of the Chess Club is to develop these qualities within the individual, and to help the members to improve their game. Experience is gained through competition with various high schools and colleges.

F. T. A. Prepares for Tomorrow

FTA.

Future Teachers of America, or FTA, is a club whose purpose is to provide an appropriate atmosphere for those students interested in pursuing a teaching career. It encourages professional teaching by exploring its opportunities, offering guidance in selecting a teaching area, and providing teaching experience. The student must possess character, scholarship, and leadership with much emphasis placed on student leadership.

F. H. A. Explores Homemaking

The Future Homemakers of America, or FHA, is organized for the purpose of promoting growing appreciation of homemaking, emphasizing the importance of worthy home membership, and promoting international good-will. A Christmas banquet is usually held in December to raise money for a Christmas project which varies from year to year.

This year, Sue Alexander was named 1968 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow from Garinger. She earned the title through her high score on a written examination which tested knowledge and attitude.

Librarians Aid Daily

Daily, hundreds of students assault the resources of our library. To meet this demand, the librarians are aided by a valiant squadron of assistants. Their duties are various, their services widespread. Each period these volunteers work checking out, reserving and shelving books, filling and sending out overdue slips, and keeping the library generally in order. Their deeds tend to be most valuable especially for the librarians.

The girl gym assistants have the chore each day of leading exercises and helping direct many of the activities such as softball, tumbling, basketball, and soccer. They also aid the physical education teachers by correcting papers and averaging grades. These girls are usually among the best when it comes to physical activities. Having already had one year of physical education, they receive another credit by leading the rigorous daily routine of the students under their direction.

Volunteers Aid Offices

When students volunteer to help in the offices, they accept many responsibilities. They are in charge of collecting the absentee cards and delivering the absentee list. They also deliver messages to students and teachers, and answer the phone.

Bus Drivers Accept Responsibilities

Nearly everyone is aware that bus driving is a responsibility but relatively few realize what a grave one transporting elementary school children is. The driving has to be executed safely, even if poor conditions exist both outside and inside the bus.

The salaried students who do operate county school buses have been trained and then tested to prove their ability. The children are in good hands, as the drivers continue to strive for safety.

The Garinger Red Cross is affiliated with the Youth Service of the American National Red Cross. Representatives are elected by homerooms, thus representing the entire student body. Activities are numerous and varied. This club sponsors enrollment drives, entertains at nursing homes, serves as volunteers at the Blood Center, and gives socials for members. "Help us help" was the Red Cross motto for the year and anyone interested in helping was urged to attend the meetings.

Medicat Sponsor Contest

The Medcats Club, open to any student interested in medicine or any of its related fields, strives to cultivate an interest in medicine and health careers and to provide avenues of service and fellowship. Though the club has never been highly successful, this year it carried out a money raising program with a contest to select the prettiest legs on the varsity basketball team by penny votes. In such ways, the Medcats are establishing themselves as a definite part of Wildcat country.

Since D.E. and D.E.C.A. go hand in hand, each Distributive Education student is expected to be an active member of the Distributive Education Club. Their goals are to provide a learning and training program for the purpose of developing future leaders for marketing, merchandising, and management. This approach to education not only develops personnel for these distributions, but also prepares the youth for better citizenship.

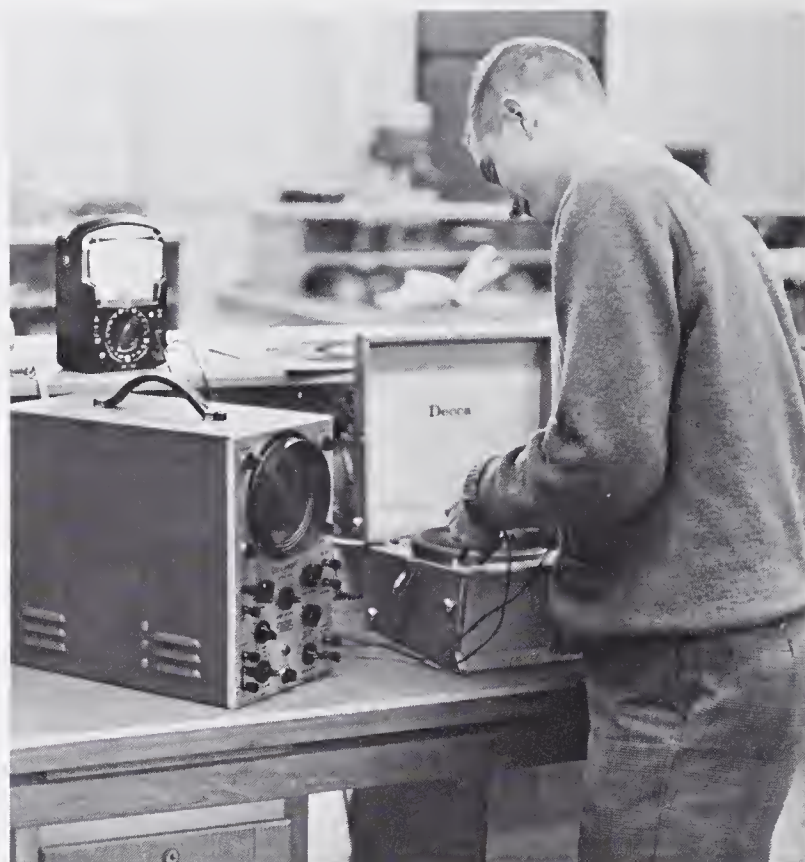

Ernie Pearson, from Garinger's top rated club, served as District D.E.C.A. President this year.

G. B. L. - - - Future Business Leaders

Garinger Business Leaders — G.B.L. — is composed of those students who are enrolled in business courses. Its goals are to develop skill in human relations, keep up with developments in industry and growth, stimulate professional growth, and encourage high standards among students. The club meets the fourth Thursday of every month. Each year the girls make a trip to the beach and visit King's College. The main project of the year is a paper drive.

The typewriter is essential equipment.

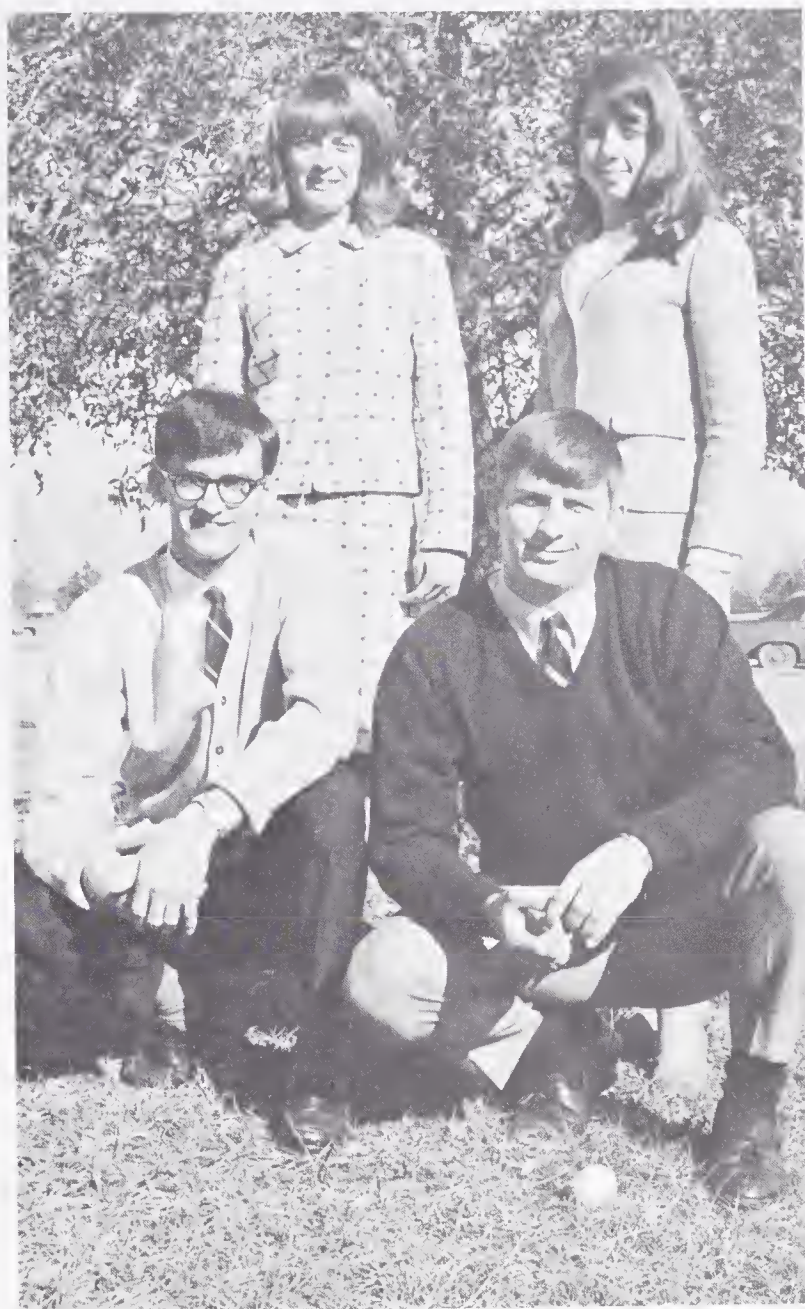

President, Diane Wood; Vice-President, Vicki Owens; Secretary, Darla Sanders.

Symphonic Band

The Symphonic Band is organized on a three year basis to explore and perform the best literature from published works representing music and composers from the seventeenth century through the present. Membership in the Symphonic Band is gained through audition, and is limited to students whose level of musical accomplishment is sufficient to allow them to benefit by the grade of music studied. The Symphonic Band presents three formal concerts each year, in addition to the student body concert, and a lawn "pops" concert late in the Spring. Also, the Band travels to Greensboro for the State Festival, where nationally prominent judges hear them and award criticisms and ratings. Wind players in the Band have been selected for the Charlotte Symphony Youth Orchestra and for the Western North Carolina All State Band. In the Fall, the Symphonic Band joins forces with the Concert Band to form the GHS Marching Band.

Concert Band Provides Experience

Orchestra officers: Betsy Norris — Vice President, Susan Hilder — President, Terry Payne — Secretary-Treasurer.

The Concert Band provides a workshop experience in band music and musicianship for those students who have not achieved a level of proficiency on their instruments that would allow them to benefit by participating in the Symphonic Band. The Concert Band performs three formal concerts a year and explores the many famous composers and their music, but on a less difficult level of performance. All students in this class march, nonetheless, in the Marching Band, thereby assuming an important role in school activities. Students may advance to the Symphonic Band or may remain in this group, depending on their musical ambitions.

Students in the Orchestra pursue a three year course of literature and performance patterned after professional orchestra tradition. Annually, the Orchestra presents three formal concerts, at least one student body assembly program, and travels to Greensboro for the North Carolina State Orchestra Festival, where the organization has received excellent comments in critiques by nationally prominent conductors and educators. Outstanding members of the Orchestra participate in the Charlotte Symphony Youth Orchestra, the North Carolina All-State Orchestra, and even the Charlotte Symphony. Garinger is represented each year, at the North Carolina Governor's School, by four to eight orchestra musicians who further their formal training during the summer months.

Among several professional-type experiences this year was a television program at Christmas. The Orchestra performed by video tape for the Channel 18 viewing area.

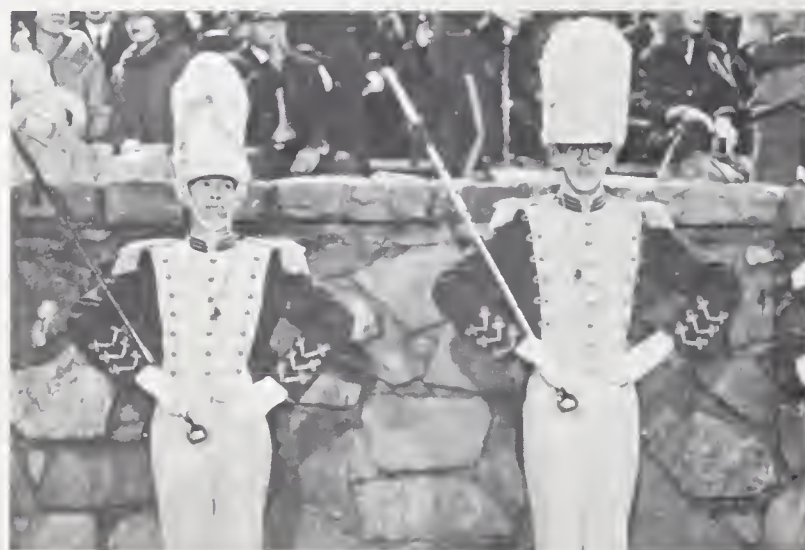

All-State Orchestra members: Sherry Jones, Susan Hilder, Betsy Norris.

Band Provides Entertainment

The six minutes of performance by the Marching Band each week during the football season is the product of seven hundred and twenty man-hours — hours during school and after school hours — invested by musicians, drum majors, twirlers, lettergirls, and flags. These hours are spent in physical and mental practice to perfect a new routine each week, sometimes with little or no help from the weather. The Marching Band exists for the sole purpose of performing at the football games, in support of the Wildcats. The members rent their uniforms, buy their own instruments, pay for their music, and spend their time preparing for these short shows, endeavoring always to present a variety of dignified, musical entertainment. Weeks of summer vacations are spent in preparation by twirlers, lettergirls, flags, and drum majors, who attend special school, clinics, and drills. When the Marching Band takes the field at halftime, it is truly the school spirit representative of Garinger!

Letter Girls Promote School Spirit

Lettergirls are a select and devoted group who march in front of the band at football games and in parades. They cheer in front of the band at pep rallies. Mr. Maddox, band director, chooses the girls on the basis of marching skill, appearance, school spirit, and interest in music and the marching band.

The girls chosen work most of the summer to improve their abilities. They also have paper drives to buy flowers and to take the former Lettergirls out to dinner the night of the homecoming game. During the summer band clinic they help instruct the sophomores and new members of the band.

After football season the girls serve as ushers for the instrumental music department concerts. This year the Lettergirls also ushered for the Charlotte Youth Orchestra winter concert.

The Garinger Choir is a group of students who perform at various functions throughout the year. They give special programs at Thanksgiving and other holidays, and this year the choir appeared on television. It was a very successful color presentation done with the other music groups.

A folk group has been formed at G.H.S. and this group has added interest to the choir. Jack Moss, Eddie Thornburg, Barry McGee, Pat Philmon, and Tom Davidson gave performances with the choir as well as other performances such as at the Windjamers concert. This group works well together and many of their songs are original compositions. G.H.S. is proud to have such an outstanding and talented group.

The Ensemble, advanced chorus group for girls, is in its second year at G.H.S. These girls work closely with the choir but usually they perform alone. Girls chosen for ensemble must pass a test in try-outs.

This year, the ensemble participated with the other music groups in the Christmas special on Channel 18 and at school assemblies. They were also in competition with other school choirs at a concert held in March at the Charlotte Auditorium.

G. H. S. Ambassadors

The Sandrettes, "Goodwill Ambassadors" of Garinger High School, are chosen on their ability to sing and work together, and on their musicianship. They perform at school functions such as assemblies, and PTA meetings, and they often give performances in the community. Sometimes they perform alone and often they give assistance to the choir. Through their talents, they help to strengthen the relationship between Garinger and the community.

. . . the toughest.

Sports participation is a challenge to both mind and body, and stands as one of the major doors of opportunity before the teenage boy. Still, unlike most doors, it is not open, but, instead, is heavily locked and bolted, and its hinges very tight. The key to this door is in the hand of almost every boy at this age, but only a select number of these possess strength and endurance, as well as ability. It is these who are able to unbolt the latch, and force open the door. It is these who play for better or worse, who put into the sport their sweat, their time, and their hearts. It is these who fight for and represent the name of Garinger, and, whether they win or lose, they deserve our thanks for such a valiant effort. They should earn not only experience but our gratitude as well.

This was the year that the Garinger Wildcats played most of their games backwards. They seemed fated to lose every game they were expected to win, and won the games the majority doubted they would.

The season opened with a stinging blow from the 3-A team of the Lexington High Yellow Jackets, which prompted everyone to dread the seemingly poor season ahead. Still, as abruptly as the loss had befallen them, the 'Cats came back victorious over Greensboro Page and, for the fifth consecutive year, the Eagles of East Mecklenburg. The wins totaled four before defeat returned on the Greenwave of Ashley, followed closely by the two-year old Patriots, who barely managed to slip past the weary 'Cats. Determined, finally, the Feline Force put down a North Rebellion in the last two seconds and stomped on over West Charlotte. But the season wasn't over, and neither was defeat, as it unexpectedly used Hunter Huss to kill all hopes for a trip to State play-offs. Then, defeat, and the season, both, were over.

Wildcat Defeat Ignites Upset Season

THE BIG UPSET: Not only this demoralizing game, but the entire season turned out to be a series of contests seemingly devoted to unexpected results. It began with Lexington High whose Yellow Jackets mercilessly swarmed over the 'Cats with their strong running game and invulnerable defense. The 'Cats tried but failed to knock them down as the half left Lexington ahead 21-0. There was only one eventful rally as Jetton scored futilely on a 67 yard run which was called back because of three penalties against Garinger.

Hard-pressed by the Yellow Jackets, the 'Cats ended badly stung, 48-0. The turned-about season was just underway.

'Cats Surge Back and Pound Page

Following the worst defeat in Garinger's history, the Wildcats sprang to life to wallop Greensboro Page. Despite the slippery field, the 'Cat's defense held Page like glue. To round out the performance, the offense worked with almost flawless perfection, tallying a total of 24 points, with Jetton scoring 3 touchdowns and Nash 1. Page was limited to only one score late in the fourth quarter.

'Cats Bring Down Eagles

Following the two non-conference matches, the Wildcats proceeded to stalk more important game. The Eagles of East Mecklenburg found themselves prey in an important conference tilt. Here the 'Cats took the advantage to show their potential strength before a large crowd of Garinger fans.

A fighting foursome composed of Nash, Jetton,

Meers, and Gibbons, teamed up to show the Eagles that the name of the game was "offense" by scoring a total of 20 points.

The defense, too, played inspired football as East pulled out only one touchdown.

This important win tied Garinger with South for the conference lead.

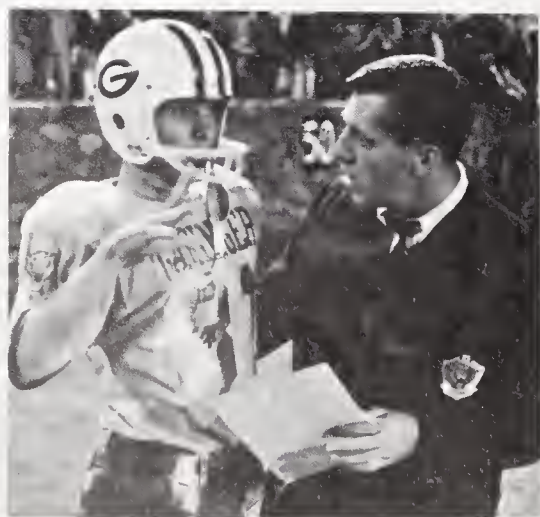

Mustangs Sent to Glue Factory

Garinger versus Myers Park is a game involving arch-rivals where almost anything could happen. Truly though, its outcome was most predictable, as the 'Cats soon made their superiority felt.

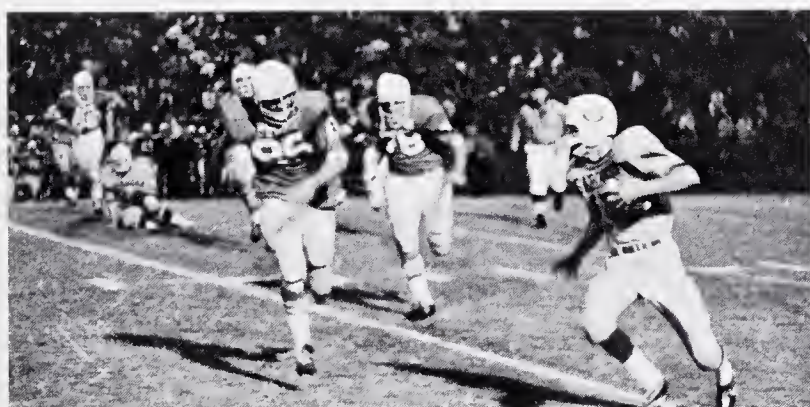

Behind the tight blocking of a light but strong line, Jim Nash riddled the Myers Park defense, completing a phenomenal ten out of sixteen passes. Jetton played his usual game scoring three times, bringing his total to nine. Ahead 19-0 at the half, the 'Cats continued to herd up the Mustangs, with the toughened defense allowing only two touchdowns against them late in the fourth quarter. Despite this rally, the Wildcats held and locked up the corral with a 33-13 victory.

Sabres Broken by Wildcat Bite

The Sabres were expected to cut the 'Cats down in this conference battle for the number one slot, and at the game's beginning there seemed to be truth in the predicted South win. Struggling, the Wildcats managed to lead by half-time, 20-14. Then, as the Sabres thrust ahead 21-20 early in the third quarter, the 'Cats feared a repetition of last year's championship game. Vengeful, the 'Cats applied the pressure, running up three more touchdowns with Nash and Jetton running the quarterback option to perfection. The defense straightened up and withstood the impact of the final Sabre assault, yielding a meager 13 yards rushing in the second half.

The Feline Force finally broke the Blade at 40-21, and took the conference lead.

'Cats Drown in Greenwave

With three conference wins under their pelts, the confident Wildcats roamed to the jinxed Gastonia-Ashley stadium in a valiant attempt to swim over the Greenwave.

From the start the 'Cats seemed to be in hot water with an offense that couldn't get started and a defense which was unable to stop the plays short of first downs. The water was getting deep by half-time with a score of 13-0 against them. Still the 'Cats weren't yet sunk as two Nash-Gibbons connections tied it up. Then, with just five minutes remaining, the Greenwave struck with a scoring run up the middle. The current was too much for the 'Cats, and they finally washed ashore, with a 19-13 defeat.

Patriots Overthrow Wildcats

A game to be forgotten, the contest between the Patriots of Independence and the Wildcats. For the 'Cats, it was a night of continual embarrassment, filled with fumbles, interceptions and blocked punts. By half-time we had entered the endzone only once. Soon the action became more rapid, as the 'Cats scored three more times, but only to outpace the Patriots by a slim margin. Then, in the final quarter, a spirited Patriot quarterback caught a 42 yard pass which he carried over to take the lead for Independence.

By the battle's end, the Patriots had turned the tables on a stunned Garinger, overthrowing them 28-26.

Garinger Slips by North

In what was perhaps the most exciting game of the season, anywhere, the Wildcats of Garinger upset the Rebels of North Mecklenburg. Garinger scored first in the game which was controlled mostly by the offenses of both teams. Only in the end did the defense become evident, as it saved the 'Cats from sure defeat. Trailing 21-20 at the half, the mighty, fighting Wildcats clawed their way back within five points of the lead.

Then, with only forty-one seconds left to play and 91 yards to paydirt, the offense took over the action. Nash scrambled and passed two long gainers to Jetton and Gibbons. In the last two seconds Nash tossed Russell Meers a 29 yard pass which forced down the North rebellion, 38-35.

Wildcats Scratch Lions

After the unexpected victory which put down the Rebels, the 'Cats tangled almost anticlimactically with the West Charlotte Lions.

Only in real trouble once, when the Lions ran ahead 7-0, the 'Cats found West Charlotte an easy opponent, and seemed to decimate the Lions with almost every play.

Garinger soon gained an ever-expanding lead for the duration of the match. With a battery of four touchdowns by Charlie Jetton, the Wildcats pawed over the remains of the Lions, a prey easily defeated by a comfortable margin of 44-12.

'Cats Season Ends in Defeat

In what was THE upset of the season, the 'Cats fumbled and lost a game that would have carried them to the State 4-A Playoffs. Highly favored to win, as was inevitably expected against the Hunter Huss Huskies, Garinger was plagued by interceptions, fumbles and an unusually effective Huss defense.

The 'Cats were able to ramble freely up and down the field, but only once did they cross the Huskies' goal line to score. This was run by Jetton, tying his last year's total of TD's but unfortunately not the game. It ended 13-7 with the 'Cats on the losing end.

Time and chances had run out for Garinger. The season of upsets was over. All over.

The 1967 Wildkittens, under the tutelage of Coaches Godwin and Gilleand, ended their season with a 3-7 record. Following a weak start, the Wildkittens came on strong at the end of the season with big wins against West Charlotte and Hunter Huss.

Although there was a lack of sheer manpower, both the offense and defense played determined football. The season started slowly but ended with a rush of glory in the final two games. Still all wasn't a total loss, for it provided good experience for what should be some fine varsity players next year.

Debby Kemenczky, Head Cheerleader

J. V. Cheerleaders

The second week of school began this year for the Junior Varsity cheerleaders when all interested sophomore girls began a rigorous two week routine of learning cheers. After this time they tried out in front of a group of teachers and the Varsity cheerleaders, and there a select number of seven girls was chosen. These girls had numerous responsibilities, such as being in charge of the sophomore building during School Spirit Week, and, for the first time this year, cheering in the isles of Memorial Stadium at the Varsity football games. As they served to inspire the new underclassmen, they also held a great potential for the future of school spirit.

Cheerleaders Arouse Spirit

After more than two years of complacency, the Wildcat spirit was aroused from its slumber this year by our vigorous team of cheerleaders. They fulfilled and surpassed their duties by using their summer time to paint banners for Memorial Stadium, conducting pep rallies which proved to be the liveliest in recent Garinger history, leading new and vibrant cheers at the games, putting school spirit at its highest mark yet. They worked hard and showed what school pride can mean, and what true spirit can do.

The Rise and Fall of the Harriers

FIRST ROW: Mike Haynes, captain; Frank Dixon, Randy Williams, Rick Boon, Jerry Green. SECOND ROW: Coach Tomanchek, Chip

Get Ready . . . Get Set . . .

Under the direction of Coach Joseph Tomanchek, the Garinger Harriers had a season seemingly for the sake of experience instead of winning. Randy Williams and Jerry Greene, the only two Garinger representatives to enter the State Meet, led this year's team composed mostly of sophomores and juniors.

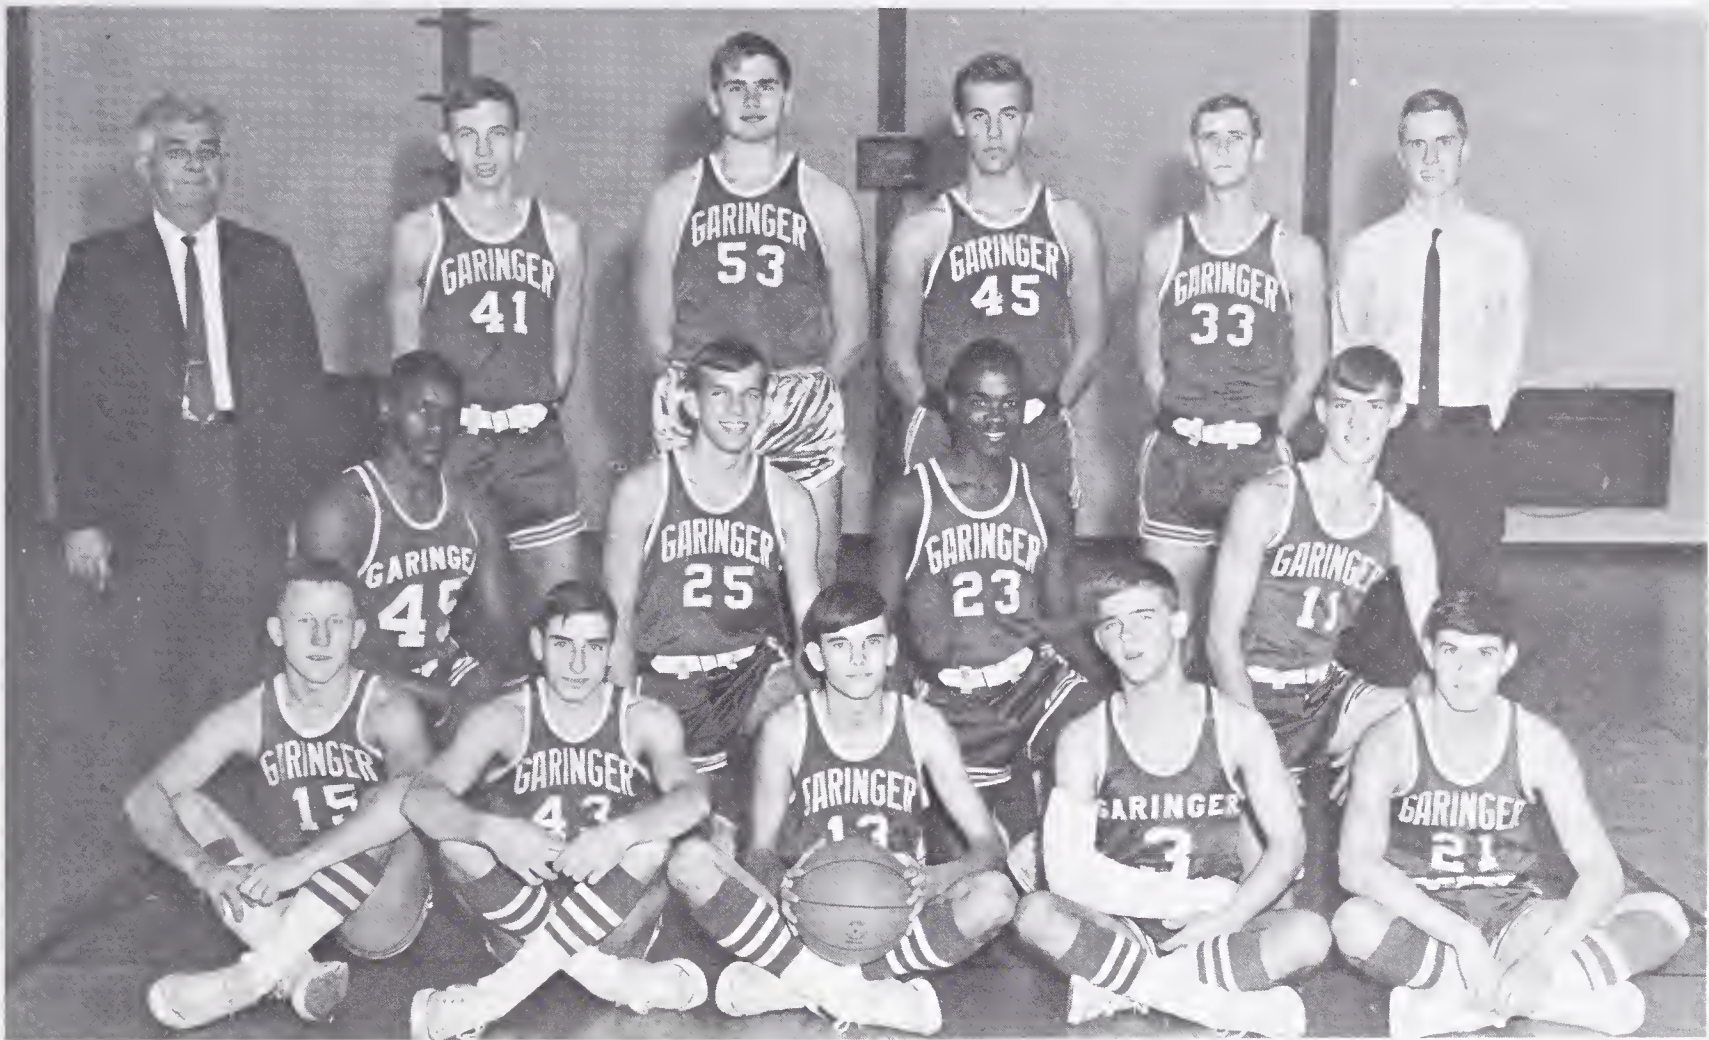

As the first gun of the season sounded, Garinger started off on the wrong leg, finishing fifth against Myers Park, West, and Independence. Going into the first turn, the Harriers pulled up to fourth against South, Catholic, North, Independence, East and Second Ward. On the backstretch at North, they rallied into second place trailing only Myers Park.

It was in the far turn run at East that they broke stride and fell back to third against the driving forces of Olympic, South, Independence, Catholic, and Second Ward. Continuing downhill into the home stretch, the Harriers faded next to fourth place in their meet with Olympic, West, Independence, and South. Finally, they regained their footing to at least hold their fourth position in the final meet of the regular season. Then, winded from their past effort, these distance men fell back into their old starting position of fifth in the Conference Meet.

Since the majority of natural talent graduated, this year's edition of the Cagers was not the refined and subtle team of last year. To attempt to compensate for this lack, the team endeavored to unify their efforts toward the common goal of victory by hard work. Led by varsity veterans Raymond Black, Jim Nash and Mike House, the core, consisting of Don Roach, Marshall Miller, and Gary Eller, all seniors, Jay Wise, junior, and sophomore Joe Graham, fought through the trying season. They toiled daily to perfect their court skills, and performed bi-weekly, striving to turn the tables and win for their school. Still, even with their great efforts, this goal was seldom reached. Time and again the team fell only points short of victory. The nights were not thiers, and they weren't always able to mold their abilities into actions.

The tables did turn, but against them, and the mighty Cagers, as a result, fell into shallow defeat. But they did not lose, for no participant in a sports activity ever loses. This is not said to hide their defeats. Instead, it is said to show that it is the effort exerted which matters, which is the very fiber of spirited competition, such as basketball.

Sports are meant to build the participants in both mind and body, and winning is only a result which inspires the spectators as well as the team members. Winning is not all, for even in losing the purpose of sports activity succeeds. The Cagers won some this year. And lost a great deal. But by all this they gained what they set out to gain. Experience.

Coach Jim Lovett

The junior edition of the Cagers proved to be almost identical to the varsity team. Like the varsity, they were plagued by a number of things, the main one being bad luck. Every game they played was hard fought, but it seemed fated that they would lose, if only by a short margin. Perhaps though the season was not in vain for what the kittens lacked in wins, they made up for in their gain of experience and know how. Indeed this year's J. V. basketball team provided very fine boys for next year's varsity.

Matman Suffer from Lack of Manpower

The 1968 Matmen, although visibly suffering from lack of manpower, managed to send three men to the state meet, one of which came in eighth. They placed twelfth in the district, much improvement over last year's team. Led by team captain Henry Hammond, and juniors Teddy Foster and Ricky Cotton, the matmen only managed to win one match. The lack of wins was not due to lack of practice or dedication, but rather lack of manpower. However with only one senior graduating, next year's team appears to be even more promising. All told, the Matmen did not gain experience for experience's sake but rather for experience for next year's sake.

Julius Torrance times team.

On your mark . . ., get set . . ., go. Go is the key word of the 1968 Garinger Cindermen. This year's team should really go some place, possibly to the state finals. The Cindermen have the best potential of any team in recent Garinger history. Led by three-year veterans such as Tom Gibbons, Carlton Harper, Charles Eye, Rick Harris, and Larry Hunt, the Cindermen should be strong in most events. Coupled with this abundance of talent is desire and esprit de corps. This year's team has more boys on it than any team in recent history proving that a good team has not only talent, but also depth. With all this going for them, plus the expert coaching of Coach Jim Lovell, the Cindermen of Garinger should certainly finish among the leaders in the conference.

After two successive years of rebuilding, the Garinger Netters hope to break the streak and advance some representatives into the state playoffs. Led by a trio of veterans, Ronald Byrum, Bill Thomas, and Jerry Goodgame, the team has experience plus a number of players showing good potential.

Of course, experience is needed for a winning team, but potential must also be maintained to continue a build up for the future. Practice is needed as always to advance skill, develop speed, and sharpen alertness.

With lots of school spirit and hard work, the Garinger Netters could have a winning season this year.

FIRST ROW: Danny Klouse, Ronald Byrum. SECOND ROW: Jerry Goodgame, Al Norris, Bill Thomas.

Netters Hold Vital Key: Experience

Golfers Hope for Swinging Season

With last year's fine record of 7-3-2 behind them, the Linksmen of Garinger should have enough impetus to carry them through this season to produce a very respectful record. With such swingers as team captain Terry Mauney, co-captain Don Minday, Jeff Petris, and Bob Young returning from last year's play, and Coach Bob Goodwin, the team should be able to drive, chip, and putt into a good season.

Bobby Young, Terry Mauney-Team Captain, Don Minday-Co-Captain, Jeff Petris.

Baseball Crew on Rebound

Morris, Don Cochran, Doug Sanders, Danny Phifer, David Canup. THIRD ROW: Mike Merritt, Billy Horton, Lemmy Prestly, Marshall Miller, Clyde Kimball, Tommy Poteat, David Morelock, Felix Hubbard, Butch Badame.

After last year's disappointing season, Coach Tomanchek and his baseball crew will definitely be trying to greatly improve their record. This year's team should rate highly because of its experience. Many lettermen are returning and there should be a fair number of sophomores and juniors. With three-year starters Mike House and Grady Little laying a firm foundation for this year's team, it is certain that this year will prove to be a fine season; possibly, with hard work and long practice, the team might even win the state trophy.

Because of Coach Tomanchek's policy of not cutting sophomores, this year's J. V. Baseball team is composed of a larger number of boys. Under the direction of Coach Jim Edwards, this year's team hopes to better last year's mark. Perhaps with long hours of practice and hard work this will be accomplished.

. . . our fellow students

The maze is open for entry.

The doors are inside; locked, unlocked.

The keys are here, at every hand.

And these long halls aren't empty, but filled, instead, with searching students, busily passing through openings, trying their keys in locks.

Although all inside this labyrinth made their entries around the middle of the century, the times of their departures through the doors of exit are uncertain . . . and it is only time which can tell just when each shall emerge from these passages to stride out into life's walk.

It is during these years, while inside, that the American Teenager decides just where, after so many steps, he is finally headed; what mark he is marching toward.

The library, more than just A PLACE TO GO, it's a retreat from the classroom, an atmosphere rivaling that of the cafeteria, warmth in the cold of winter, a dry spot in the rain, a paradise for the reader, a resting place for the tried, a home for the latent homeworker, an escape from the World Ping-Pong Championships in the Student Commons . . .

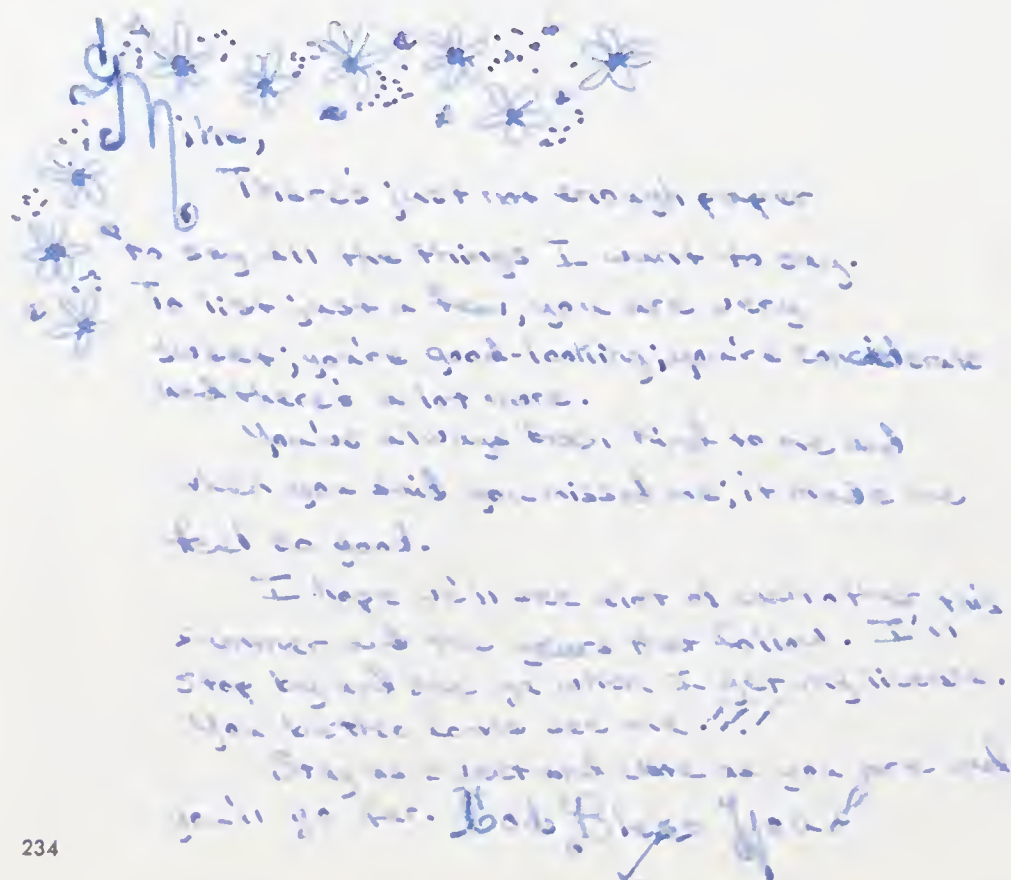

Still to be all of these things and more for all of these people there must reign order and some glimmer of silence, and to effect such there stands a ready force of three valiant souls. For, although the perfect library situation will never occur at Garinger, we must note that this trio often comes frightfully close to that goal.

... our supporters.

 Dear Mike,
 There's just not enough paper
 to say all the things I want to say.
 To say just a few, you are really smart; you're good-looking; you're confident and there's a lot more.
 You're always there, kind to me and when you smile, you make me feel that so good.
 I hope I'll see you at graduation this summer and the years that follow. I'll stop by and see you when I get my license.
 You better write soon!!
 Stay as a part of me as you grow and you'll go far. Bob Flagg Your friend
 Bob Flagg

Seldom does an employee from one of the local business establishments actually enter into the halls of Garinger High, but indirectly he walks through these doors with the frequency of students, for it is the very student body which represents him. Transportation, clothing, foodstuffs; essentials and non-essentials — all are goods and services proffered by these people for the existence and delight of the learning masses. Upon consideration, we can find their influence in our daily lives to be something almost incomprehensible.

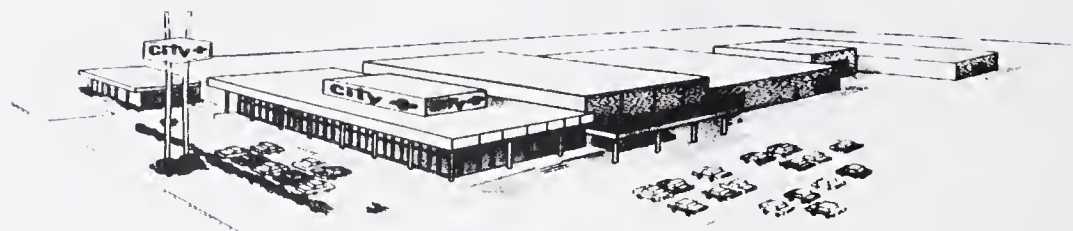

Although we are not often honored by their actual presence, we are continually blessed by their tremendous support.

PONTIAC, TEMPEST, FIREBIRD.

Three great reasons why we became the newest Pontiac dealer in town.

Everyone loves a winner. And we're no exception. So when we saw what Pontiac had to offer this year, we just knew that Wide-Tracking was bound to become the great American sport.

But don't get the idea that we're going to rest on Pontiac laurels. We know that when you're new you have to try harder. We've staffed our sales department with professional men who know that arm twisting is no substitute for an irresistible deal. And we've hired factory-trained servicemen whose motto is: Do it right the first time. On time. (And we've filled our service department with the latest equipment to help them make sure it is.)

So come on in and try us, won't you? We'll do our best to make it a habit.

Alma Mater

Far above the toil and tumult
Of our city's growing night.
Proudly stands our Alma Mater
Shining brightly in the light.
Crowned with wisdom, knowledge, power,
Boldly let her praises ring;
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Hail to Garinger High, we sing
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Hail to great Garinger High we sing.

Mike,
I don't know
you well but you see really in art this was year. Keep up the good work and finish that gigantic canvas of yours so I can see it before I leave.

Love
Monnette
Edwards 68

"Wisdom is the principal thing;
therefore get wisdom: and with all thy getting get understanding."

—Proverbs 4:7

Time, too soon, runs out; the last class is over, the final schoolbell sounds, and the doors of high school opportunity close behind. Still, these are among the first of life's doors, and many more lie ahead.

"Let thine eyes look right on, and let thine eyelids look straight before thee. Ponder the path of thy feet, and let all thy ways be established. Turn not to the right hand nor to the left."

—Proverbs 4:25-27a

Mike, I have been great knowing you for the past 5 years. Hope you have a great summer and don't get lost in the crowd. Love,
Monnette Edwards

Editor's Message

First I would like to thank all the people behind the scenes who have worked many hours to make the publication of the yearbook possible. I would also like to thank the staff for all their hard work and determined effort. Also, many thanks go out to the students and teachers who make the yearbook and for their cooperation. Thanks should also go to our advertisers for supporting our book.

My deepest appreciation goes to Miss Wallace, our advisor, and to Mr. R. W. Norman from Keys Printing Corporation for his patience and understanding while helping us publish the 1968 SNIPS and CUTS.

Sincerely,

Pam Scanyers

Editor

Mike,
I had a great time in English
this year with
you. Lots of Luck
in the future.
Love,
Sheriff
Chennox

Mike,
Well we have finished
another year of school.
Personally I didn't think I would make
it. You know before long I hope we will be graduating. Be Good and stay out of trouble
I don't P.T.Y.
See you next year.

Tootie Robert
Banks

Well Mike,
I haven't known you but for about 2 years. I can honestly say you're one of the nicest boys I know.
God bless you.
Love ya,
Diane Lee

Mike, great knowing you. It's been a long time but I hope you get into some classes.
We could have a blast. Stay as sweet and nice as you are and you'll go real far. Love ya always,
Anne

Lots of luck in the future

Mike,
It has been great
knowing you this year.
You're a nice guy! Be good and you'll go far in life.
I hope you have a great summer and I hope to see you next year. Best wishes

Love ya,
Diane Lee

Mike,
It's been nice knowing you this year. You're a great guy and I'm glad I have a friend like you. We had good time in Math + Art and I hope you can have a good time next year. Lots of luck in the future.

Mike,

It's been great knowing you this year. It seems like everyone starts off that way. But I really mean it. We have been pretty good friends this year and I hope we continue to be good friends in the future years. Be real good and careful this summer especially at the river.

Hope to see you this summer or if not next year.

Love,
Pattie Elmore

Mike,

Just a short note to tell you how much I have enjoyed being in your classes these past 9 years. We really had some good times at Tryon Hills, didn't we? Well, good luck in the future and God Bless You Always.

Love,

Teresa

P.S. Keep in touch!

Mike,

You're really a great guy! I sure hope we have some classes together next year! Be sweet and have a nice summer!

Love ya!

Penny

Mike, it has great this year having you for a friend. We have had some crazy times
together in Math.
you are a swell
guy and I'll never forget ya.

~~Kevin~~ I mean Mike,

You can tell I'm always thinking of you truly. I've known you since those good ole days at Cochrane and you are abright. Well today was wild in Study Hall wasn't it. I guess I'm just a brain imbecile

Mike ole boy you are a great guy I guess I mean I just don't know. Well I guess I'll go pick up some more papers.

Best wishes from a good friend
Kevin Bell

Mike, I don't got anything to say but wish I could be here instead of the Big "I" - not really
I get sick of it.
oh well, when

Love ya,
Becky

Good Luck
Always,
Love,
Debra Bauman

Mike, I've Even though I've known you a couple of months, it's been fun. Good luck & I'll see you around
this summer.

Jan R. Bartley

Mike, Although we didn't have any classes together we did see each other in the halls a few times. Be looking for you next year!
Love,
Anne
Thode

Mike, I've
known you a couple of months, it's been fun. Good luck & I'll see you around
this summer.

Mike!
 It's been a great year at class in your wine really this year. We've had a good time...
 especially, you've got a nice personality and a good disposition and far in with both of these you'll go far in left (WITH NOTHING)!!! ONLY KIDDIN' Well he real good this summer and look me up!
 See ya

Mike,
 It's been great knowing you these past 2 years. I hope to know you for several more years. It's nice to have people like you cluttering up the school grounds. Don't change and I like it that way. Don't swap with friends.
 Best wishes & Good luck
 Gill Stevens

Mike,
 It's been great knowing you this year and being in your classes.
 Best wishes & Good luck.
 Lynda Hunt

Mike,
 It's been nice knowing you for the past 10 years. Do you realize how long that is? See you at the river (maybe)
 Cathy

Mike,
 It's been nice knowing you this year. Stay as cute and sweet as you are and you'll go far in life. Lots of luck with the girls!
 Best wishes & Good luck
 Sherry James

Mike,
 Well, we've made it thru almost Sawyer's class. It's been different, if nothing else, is to Mr. S. & his pigs! Good luck & I'll see ya next year
 Glenda

Mike,
 I've enjoyed being in English with you this past year. Getting pleasure of sitting in front of you is a wow! with good bye - be good.
 Best of luck
 Patrice

Mike,
Art has been a lot of fun this year. We enjoyed knowing you, even though it was only a short time. See you next year - we got another 2 yrs of art to go through.
good luck,
Franne Walker

Mike,

This year's been bad, hasn't it. It's been fun knowing you though. I hope you make it through this summer.

Randy Dyer

Mike,
It's been great.
You're a swell kid.
Stay sweet forever.
Love ya,
Linda

Mike, bad it took too long until the end of the year to meet you.
Hope to see ya next year. Stay Nice!
Linda

Thanks for making friendship has lasted 6 years. I hope it will continue.

Love, Donna

Mike, you are a very sweet person. I have known you since the 5th grade. You were a naughty little boy, you know. I hope you have a great summer and all, & and I'll see you next year. Then you next to a fellow-sophomore...
Love -
Linda Avery

Mike!
I hate we didn't have
as many classes together but I don't think I've and you have a marvelous story just like us.
Love,
Linda

Mike,
Another year has pass and it seems like a week. Meeting people that you have only seen for only a few minutes
the halls. Stay cute and sweet and I will see you next year.

O.K.

Love ya
